Mayor Message

Citizens of Morris,

Council has been looking for opportunities to improve communication with our citizens. This is never more important when there is an issue of concern, such as a boil water advisory.

We also understand communication has changed. The Town actively uses Facebook, Twitter, text alerts, and our own website to make sure people are aware of things that are happening. However, even with all of these great avenues to communicate, there are still residents who do not use these forms of communication.

For example, with our latest boil water advisory, our Fire Department delivered notices door to door to ensure our citizens were aware of this important issue. It was good to do this, but it is very time-consuming, especially as many of the homes visited already knew of the advisory. Therefore, we would like to find out who needs communications outside of the media currently being used by the Town, and specifically target them for direct delivery of information in the future.

For important information, the Town offers the following communication options:

- Town website
- Town social media (Facebook, Instagram)
- Text alert & Email alert

If you or any friends or family do not use or have access to these options, please contact the Town office at 204-746-2531 to request direct delivery of information. Please provide a name and address, and we will ensure that important information is personally delivered when needed.

We value all of our residents, and want to make sure that everyone is aware when something of importance arises.

Scott Crick, CPA (CGA), MBA
